Reflective Writing

Begin with the line:

The one thing I have better appreciated during the past few months is how we'll someday remember this time, that is also filled with small moments of hope and humanity.

A guide for your writing:

- Include a plan that has basic details of your write up.
- Includes at least 3 ideas.
- Begin with an introduction that will be attention-grabbing.
- The content could follow, for example, what favourable experiences you have had of hope and humanity which will stay on in your memory long after this has passed.
- The above point will highlight your ability and personality to handle situations.
- The conclusion could bring together the all the points and your learning experience.
